ARCHIVES
OF THE
COLONY AND STATE OF NEW YORK IN THE REVOLUTION.

DURING my first term of office as comptroller, the work of putting the old records of the comptroller's department in systematic order for purposes of easy reference was undertaken. This work in its progress brought to light quantities of forgotten papers relating to the services performed by New York in the Revolutionary war. These papers, long since detached from their original file packages, were promiscuously scattered through great masses of old vouchers and files. I realized at once their great value and importance, and my impression has been most amply confirmed by the judgment of Col. F. C. Ainsworth, whose great work in arranging for the United States government the contributions of men made in the various wars by the separate states and colonies, is well known. Competent men were, therefore, set at work searching out and arranging these papers, and this task, though slow and laborious, is believed to have been thoroughly and intelligently done. The success of this work is very largely due to the earnest and intelligent interest taken in it by Col. Charles O. Shepard, and his efforts were greatly assisted by the efficient work of Mr. William B. Wemple of this office.

These papers contain the muster and pay rolls of different organizations, and the historic value and importance of the papers is clearly proved by the fact that they alone show New York to have furnished nearly one and a half times the number of troops with which she is usually credited, and adding to these the names obtained from other reliable sources, the aggregate is more than twice the number usually credited. General Knox, first secretary of war, in his report to Congress of the number of troops furnished by each colony, gave New York credit for but 17,781 men, and this report, copied into our histories, very naturally has ever since been accepted as correct. We now find positive proof of the service of 41,633 men. I therefore submit the following pages containing the names, rank and organization of these 41,633 men, whose services can be shown beyond any question, with the greater satisfaction for believing that a great historical injustice, reflecting in many minds on New York's patriotic spirit in the revolutionary struggle, will hereby be rectified, and she take her place, second only to Massachusetts in number of troops furnished, and, under the circumstances surrounding her, second to none in lofty patriotism.

It is true that lists of names of New York's revolutionary soldiers have been heretofore published, but these were derived almost entirely from other than original sources, the state treasurer's books of account being the chief source, and their accuracy, for this reason, has been a matter of grave doubt, and therefore the results could not be accepted in historical works. All the names published in this volume are derived from that highest of sources, the original muster and pay-rolls, and thus the services of the individual and the aggregate are conclusively shown. Several thousands of the names, particularly of those belonging to the regiments of the "Line," were obtained from rolls on file in the War Department at Washington, through the courtesy of Hon. Daniel S. Lamont, Secretary of War. And here it may not be inappropriate to say that Col. Ainsworth, after personal examination of the records of service found in the comptroller's office, was so well satisfied of their accuracy and value, that he has had the same transcribed and placed in the records of the War Department, and the 41,633 names found here will now appear to the credit of New York in the government's record of the revolutionary war, soon to be published.

Nor do the names contained in this volume in all probability comprise all of those from New York who performed service in that great struggle. Cases exist in which records of a full quota of field, staff and line officers for a regiment have been found, but no enlisted men. This state of things was proof positive, to any one with knowledge of military affairs, that a deplorable deficiency in the records existed. It was not uncommon, as I am credibly informed, for the officer commanding an organization to retain all the records relating to his command. Indeed, the records from which the names of the men in Colonel Gansevort's regiment, Third New York Line, were obtained, are still in the possession of the descendants of Colonel Gansevort, and the only original record of Alexander Hamilton's artillery company is in the possession of the New York Historical Society, to which body we are indebted for its appearance here. Had New York, as several of the colonies did, published the record of its revolutionary service, while the records were still all existing and their location, and the facts connected with them, were within the memory of living men, a far more accurate result would have been reached. As it is, there can be little reasonable doubt that in some cases records of service have been lost, and that New York can never show the full number of troops furnished by her in the struggle. This is almost conclusively shown by the fact that the papers relating to pensions granted by the state for injuries received while in service in the Revolutionary War disclose many names which do not appear upon any roster in our possession.

In any consideration of what was contributed by the separate colonies to the success of the war, it is proper that the situation in each colony should be taken into account. New York, more than any other colony, was the battle-ground of the war, as indeed, from its position, it always will be in any conflict with Great Britain. The first forts captured from the English in the war were Ticonderoga and Crown Point, May 10th and 12th, 1775; and the first attempt to construct an American navy was made by Arnold on Lake Champlain in June, 1775. Johnson's last raid through the Mohawk valley, in which the battle of Johnstown and various smaller encounters were fought, took place in 1781. Between those dates were the expedition from New York into Canada, resulting in the siege and capture of the fort at St. John's, September 25th, 1775, followed by the capture of Montreal, and ending in the disaster at Quebec; the expedition to Johnstown, resulting in the surrender of three hundred armed Scotch Highlanders, January 19th, 1776; battle of Long Island, August 27th, 1776; battle of Harlem Plains, September 16th, 1776; battle of White Plains, October 28th, 1776; attack upon and capture of Fort Washington, November 16th, 1776; naval battles on Lake Champlain, October 11th and 13th, 1776; the various manœuvres of the eventful year 1777, which preceded the famous battles of that year; the battle of Bennington, fought on October 16th, 1777, on New York soil, but largely by Vermont boys, and which prevented the British from receiving needed supplies; the successful defence and sortie from Fort Schuyler, and the bloody battle of Oriskany, August 6th, 1777, which prevented the junction of St. Leger with Burgoyne, and made the latter's surrender inevitable; the glorious battles of Saratoga, September 19th and October 7th, 1777, leading to Burgoyne's surrender, October 17th, 1777; the destructive expedition up the Hudson under Sir Henry Clinton, October, 1777; Johnson's Indian raid through the Mohawk, Schoharie and Susquehanna valleys, 1778; Sir Henry Clinton's second expedition up the Hudson, May, 1779; Mad Anthony's capture of Stony Point with 543 prisoners, July 15th, 1779; the expeditions under Colonels Willett and Van Schaick against Onondagas, and the horrible retaliatory raids made by the Indians, 1779; Sullivan's expedition against the Indians in 1779, and the battle near the present site of Elmira; Johnson's raid into the Mohawk valley, 1780, and Governor Clinton's pursuit; the destruction of the Canajoharie and Fort Plain settlements by Brant, August, 1780; the extended raid of Sir John Johnson, Brant and Cornplanter, in the autumn of 1780, with the battle near Stone Arabia, and Carleton's raid on the upper Hudson, 1780. The surrender of Cornwallis in 1781 was the practical end of the conflict, and the foregoing list of military movements shows that every year during the conflict New York was the scene of very active service.

The extensive fighting done within our borders brought into active and honorable service branches of military which in colonies where no fighting was done were relieved. Our militia were the heroes of many hotly contested fields. The battle of Oriskany, in its percentages of killed and wounded, the bloodiest battle of the war, was won by the militia, and Burgoyne's surrender thereby made sure. The militia bore a highly honorable part in the ever memorable battles of Saratoga. But many men undoubtedly performed splendid service in the emergencies which called out the militia and then retired quietly to their homes, leaving no record of their service which can now be found.

Again, the portions of New York occupied by the whites were surrounded on almost all sides by tribes of hostile Indians, who were incited and led by still more savage whites. Brant was sometimes humane, but Butler never. The Hurons had inherited from many preceding generations the disposition to make hostile raids upon the territory of their ancient foes, the Iroquois. At the breaking out of the war the influence of Sir William Johnson over the tribes of the Iroquois was almost boundless. His position as Indian agent had brought him into close relations with these tribes, and this position he seems to have honorably used and to have succeeded in convincing them that he was their friend. His mantle, at his death, fell upon his son, Sir John, and his son-in-law, Col. Guy Johnson, and that they used their influence to the fullest extent to stir up Indian hostility to the patriotic citizens west of Albany is a sad page in the history of the war. The course pursued by Johnson in his raid of 1780, which is shown on a map which follows, and which was carefully prepared, and the account of the raid which has been compiled for this purpose, show the wide range of territory which was covered by this raid. Bear in mind that this was but one of several, and the condition of frontier New York during the war can be imagined. It required something more or less than patriotism to induce the frontiersman to leave his family with the prospect before them of that most horrible of frontier experiences, an Indian raid.

In the summer of 1776 the control of New York city, of Long Island and Staten Island and a part of Westchester county passed into the hands of the British, there to remain until after the treaty of peace, the evacuation taking place November 25, 1783. Fully one-tenth of the state's population, from which men could be drawn to recruit the armies, were thus locked up. The population of New York state in 1790 was 340,120, and of New York city alone, 33,131.

The influence of the Johnson family in the Mohawk and Schoharie valleys was predominant, not only with the Indians but with the whites as well. Sir William Johnson was the man to whom they all looked up; capable, occupying high positions and owning large tracts of land and having almost boundless control of the Indians. It is not strange that his influence should have been so great with the whites, and to that cause may be attributed the fact that many followed his successor, Sir John, in his defection.

These facts, briefly stated, show New York's trying position in the Revolutionary War, and confirm what was said at the outset, that in lofty patriotic endeavor, New York was second to none of the thirteen colonies.

The military forces of the Colony and State during the revolutionary struggle, were divided into three classes.

The Line; which regiments were in the United States service under General Washington. There were also regiments of artillery and an organization of "Green Mountain Boys" in the Line.

The Levies; which were drafts from the different militia regiments, and from the people direct as well, and which could be called upon to serve outside the State during their entire term.

The Militia; which then, as now, could only be called out of the State for three months at a time.

Records are found of four privateers in the service and pay of the State—the schooner “General Putnam,” the sloop “Montgomery,” the sloop “Schuyler,” and the frigate “Congress.” These armed vessels took many prizes, and records are found of the division of the spoils.

Of the Line, 9 organizations.

Of Levies, 7 organizations.

Of Militia, 68 organizations are traced by these records.

In all 84.

Associated Exempts were a unique class and were authorized by an act of April 3, 1778. They comprised: “All persons under the age of sixty who have held civil or military commissions and are not or shall not be re-appointed to their respective proper ranks of office, and all persons between the ages of fifty and sixty.”

They could only be called out “in time of invasion or incursion of the enemy.”

The militia regiments were designated, first by their colonel’s names and next by their counties, as “Fisher’s Regiment, of Tryon County.”

Instances crop up, here and there, in which a number was given to a regiment; as, for instance, “The Sixth Albany County,” but it is a moot question if such was the general practice. Be that as it may, the name of the colonel is found to be quite sufficient for full identification.

The Militia was called out when wanted; kept as long as wanted, and the soldiers then sent to their homes. Sometimes a regiment or a part of a regiment would be called out half a dozen times in the course of a year, and for half a dozen days at a time, and again it might not be needed in the entire year.

Officers and men seem to have served in different organizations almost indiscriminately. At one call, they were in one regiment or company, and at another call, in another regiment or company.

It is, therefore, very difficult to keep trace of them on the different pay-rolls or “pay-books,” as they were sometimes called.

Nepotism, or family influence, was most marked, and some regiments contained as many as five and seven officers of the same family. (See Colonel Brinkerhoff’s regiment, and the Millers’, in Colonel Thomas’ regiment.)

Counties were divided into districts, and the colonel of the regiment in each district was given almost unlimited jurisdiction in military matters. He was required to see that every male between the ages of sixteen and fifty was enrolled. Later, the age limit was extended to sixty.

If an able bodied man, he must serve when "warned" under penalty of fine and imprisonment; but if incapacitated, he must contribute toward furnishing and equipping another man — any person furnishing a substitute being exempt for the time that substitute served. Quakers, Moravians and United Brethren were enrolled, but exempted from service upon payment of money, which varied in amount as the war progressed until, in 1780, they were obliged to pay £160 per year.

One miller to each grist mill, three powder makers to each powder mill, five men to each furnace, three journeymen in each printing office, and one ferryman to each public ferry, were also exempt. Each soldier must present himself armed, and with a blanket, a powder-horn and a flint, and sometimes even a tomahawk was required.

All officers in the cities of New York, Albany and Schenectady were ordered to wear their swords during divine service under a penalty of twenty shillings.

Rum, sugar and tea were regular rations, and the amount was gauged by the rank. A major-general was deemed to require, and was allowed each month, four gallons of rum, six pounds of sugar, and half a pound of tea. A brigadier-general, three gallons of rum, four pounds of sugar, and six ounces of tea. A colonel, a lieutenant-colonel, and a major, two and one-half gallons of rum, and the same amount of sugar and tea. A chaplain, ditto as to sugar and tea, but only two gallons of rum.

The scale was continued until a non-commissioned officer and a private received one pound of sugar, two ounces of tea, and one pound of tobacco; but no rum.

A colonel's pay was $75 per month, or one York £ per day.

A lieutenant-colonel's pay was $60 per month.

A major's pay was $50 per month.

A captain's pay was $40 per month.

An adjutant's pay was $40 per month.

A lieutenant's pay was $26½ per month.

An ensign's pay was $20 per month.

A sergeant's pay was $8 per month.

A corporal's pay was $7½ per month.

A private's pay was $6½ per month.

Nor was this, by any means, always in money. It was sometimes in State notes and sometimes in authority to "impress" articles or animals under supervision of some designated officer, who should give a receipt, in the name of the State, to the impressee.

As late as 1784, the large majority of the soldiers were still unpaid for their services in 1776-7-8-9-80-81-82.

On April 27th of 1784, the legislature passed "An act for the settlement of the pay of the Levies and Militia for their services in the late war."

This statute provided that abstracts and pay-rolls of the different regiments and separate commands should be certified by the State auditor; he deducting for advances made to officers or privates by "impressing" or otherwise, and an allowance be made for the depreciation of the pay of such as had been in captivity, for the time they were in captivity.

Upon receipt of these accounts from the auditor, the treasurer of the State was required to issue to persons, to whom pay should appear to be due, or to their legal representatives, certificates of indebtedness bearing five per cent interest, and such certificates should be receivable for purchases of forfeited estates, or in payment for waste or "unappropriated lands," taxes, etc.

Officers could not "throw up or quit" their commissions until they had served fifteen years.

All slaves killed in the service were to be paid for.

In time of invasion, any slave, not in the military service, found one mile from his master's abode, without a certificate from his master showing his business, might be "shot or otherwise destroyed without fear of censure, impeachment or prosecution for the same."

In 1781, it was provided that any slave who should enlist and serve "for three years, or until discharged," should be declared a freeman of the State.

In the same year, a bounty of "Land Rights"—so-called—(a "Right" being 500 acres) was offered to officers and men for two regiments then to be raised, for the defense of the State.

To a colonel, lieutenant-colonel and major, four Rights. To a captain and a surgeon, three Rights. To a lieutenant, ensign or surgeon's mate, two Rights, and to a non-commissioned officer or a private, one Right.

Any master or mistress who should deliver an able-bodied slave to serve, one Right.

By an act of April 1st, 1778, each Militia regiment was divided into "classes" of fifteen men each. When soldiers were needed to recruit the line regiments, each class must, within nine days, furnish a man fully armed and equipped. In case they neglected so to do, the designated officer proceeded, at once, to draft one of the number by lot.

By an act of March 11th, 1780, every regiment was again divided into "classes;" this time of thirty-five men each, and when soldiers were required as before, these "classes" were also called upon to furnish a man as before, and in case of failure so to do within fifteen days, were fined a sum equal to double the amount of the highest bounty which had then been given. This fine was collected by distress and sale of goods and chattels of those refusing to pay, or, if not possessed of property, they were committed to jail "without bail or mainprize" until the sum was paid.

If a "class" furnished a man as the law required, it received a money bounty, sometimes as much as £80.

As the war progressed, and the needs of the government became more pressing, land "Rights" were added to the money bounty, and on March 23d, 1782, an act was passed providing that any "class" or any person who furnished an able-bodied man to serve "for three years, or during the war," should be entitled to 600 acres; or 350 acres for a two years' enlistment; and any person or "class" who should deliver a man within twenty days from the time of notification, 200 acres extra.

The meaning of Militia is— "The military force of a nation."

In this connection it may not be out of place nor uninteresting to trace this branch of the public service from its inception to the commencement of the Revolutionary war.

The militia of this continent had its origin in a law promulgated in 1664 by James, Duke of York and Albany; the owner, by a grant from Charles the Second, of a large territory, which included the territory which is now eastern and southern New York. "The Duke's Laws," as they are still called, covered numerous subjects and were most paternal and creditable.

As to militia, they provided that: "All males above the age of sixteen shall be enrolled and be subject to military duty. Each person must provide himself with a good, serviceable gun to be kept in constant fitness, with a good sword, bandoleer and horn, a wormer, a scourer, a priming wire, a shot bag, a charger, one pound of good powder, four pounds of pistol bullets and twenty-four bullets fitted for the gun, four fathoms of serviceable match for match lock gun and four good flints for the fire lock gun."

Four local and one general training days per year were prescribed for each "Ryding" and once in two years, a general training day "for all the soldiers within the government."

The militia were to be taught "in the comely handling and ready use of the arms, and in all postures of war and in all words of command."

In case of failure of anyone to appear for duty, he was to be fined, and the fines were to be divided; one-third going to the commanding general and the remaining two-thirds to be divided amongst the other officers. Ample power was given the general for collecting the fines.

This code seems to have held, in most of its features, until 1702, when Queen Anne modified and amended it. She ordered that all males between the ages of sixteen and fifty be liable for military duty and, in case of an invasion, all between fifteen and sixty. She generously allowed, even ordered, each captain to furnish drums, bugles and colors for his company, and emphasized the order by a fine of £2 for each month he was in default.

This was also provided: "Every soldier belonging to a troop of horse shall appear twice a year for a drill and muster, provided with a good, serviceable horse, not less than fourteen hands high, covered with a good saddle, housings, breast-plate and crupper, a case of good pistols, a good sword or hanger, one half a pound of good powder and twelve sizable bullets, a pair of boots and suitable spurs, and a carbine well fixed with a belt, swivel and a blanket, under penalty of ten shillings for the want of a sizable horse, and ten shillings for want of each or either of the other articles." "New York County Horse" must have blue coats and breeches and scarlet waistcoats, and their hats laced with gold. "Albany County Horse" must have blue coats, but their hats laced with silver.

"Every foot soldier must provide himself, and appear and muster with a good, well fixed musket or fuzee, a good sword, belt and cartridge box, six cartridges of powder, a horn and six sizable bullets. At home, he must always have on hand one pound of good gunpowder and three pounds of sizable bullets." For want of these articles a fine of twenty shillings, and prison charges until the fine were paid, was imposed.

At his discretion, the captain was allowed and authorized to levy upon and sell the delinquent's goods.

"In case the offender be unable or refuse to pay, and he have no goods to distress, he shall ride the wooden horse, or be laid by the neck and heels in a public place for not to exceed an hour."

For seventy-three years, or until 1775, nearly the same law was re-enacted each year, the title almost invariably being:

"An act for settling the militia of this Province, and the making of it useful for the security and defense thereof."

No mention of compensation for military service was ever made, and when the number of articles which each soldier must furnish are taken into consideration, it will be seen that the tax was, by no means, an inconsiderable one.

This was the condition of the militia when the cloud of the Revolutionary War threw its shadow over the land.

JAMES A. ROBERTS,
Comptroller.

RAID OF
SIR JOHN JOHNSON

SCHOHARIE AND MOHAWK VALLEYS, IN OCTOBER, 1780.

The following description of the devastation of the Schoharie and Mohawk valleys, by Johnson, Butler and Brant, in October, 1780, is made from original manuscripts in the "Clinton Papers;" "The Northern Invasion," by Franklin B. Hough (1866), published by the Bradford Club, and of which seventy-five copies only were issued; and notes prepared by Prof. Rufus A. Grider, of Canajoharie, N. Y.

THE invasion and destruction of the Schoharie and Mohawk valleys by Sir John Johnson, in October, 1780, had for its object the cutting off of the supplies of wheat, rye, cattle, etc., which aided in supporting General Washington's army, and also the depopulation of those districts by destroying the resources of those who fed the enemies of King George. The raid was executed in a masterly manner. He accomplished all he intended doing, except the destruction of the three forts in the Schoharie valley.

The army was collected at Lachine, near Montreal, and proceeded up the St. Lawrence into Lake Ontario, through the Oswego river to Lake Oneida, and up Chittenango creek, where their boats were concealed and left; thence south-east, overland, crossing the headwaters of the Unadilla river, to a point about ten or fifteen miles south of Otsego lake, on the Susquehanna river, where the Indians, and seven companies of regulars, who came up the Susquehanna from Tioga Point, joined Sir John; thence east to about four miles from the Schoharie river.

The approach of the enemy had been conducted with as much secrecy as possible, but two Oneida Indians, having deserted, brought in the intelligence of their movements. It had been expected that the first attack would be made upon the upper fort.*

Early in the morning, on the 17th of October, the enemy were discovered passing at some distance from the upper fort. A signal gun was fired to notify the posts below of this movement, and their garrisons hastened to make such preparations for defense as their situation allowed. No attempt was made by the enemy to molest the upper fort; but finding themselves discovered, and secrecy no longer possible, they began at once their work of devastation, by setting fire to buildings, barns and stacks of grain.

Soon after the first alarm, a party of nineteen volunteers was sent out from the middle fort,* to ascertain its cause, but soon returned, having narrowly escaped being surrounded and cut off. The enemy soon appeared before the fort, and some skirmishing ensued between their advance forces and small parties of the garrison, but without loss on either side.

Colonel Johnson then brought up a small mortar and a brass three-pounder field piece, and fired for some time upon the fort, but without material effect. An officer and two men were then sent, bearing a white flag, but as they approached the fort, they were fired upon. This checked their advance, and they returned. The flag advanced a second and a third time, but was each time stopped by a rifle shot from the fort, when, finding further attempt at parley impossible, the firing was resumed. The work of devastation having been completed, and the spirit of the garrison appearing to defy an assault, the invaders, about three o'clock in the afternoon, desisted from further hostilities, and continued their march down the valley.

But two persons were mortally wounded in the middle fort, while the loss of the enemy is believed to have been greater. The little garrison had expended most of their ammunition when the enemy retired.

Several scouts sent out from the lower fort† to learn the progress of events up the valley, returned, pursued by the enemy, who appeared about four o'clock in the afternoon, and passed this fort upon both sides. Several sharpshooters were stationed in the tower of the church, who were prepared for effective service, and the enemy, after firing a few cannon shot, two of which lodged in the timbers of the roof, and burning several buildings in the neighborhood, continued their march without attempting further hostilities at this place, and encamped for the night a few miles below.‡

Intelligence of the presence of the enemy at Schoharie reached Governor Clinton at Albany by noon on the 17th, and Lieutenant-Colonel Veeder sent another messenger with a full account of the destruction of the settlements as soon as the enemy had passed the lower fort. Orders were at once sent to General Robert Van Rensselaer, and measures were immediately taken to rally a force of militia sufficient for pursuit. The general arrived at Schenectady towards evening, on the 18th, while the horizon in the direction of Schoharie was still glowing with the fires set by the enemy the day before, and lost no time in consulting upon measures for hastening the march of his troops in pursuit of the enemy.

* Situated within the limits of the present village of Middleburg, and built in 1777.

† It stood a mile north of Schoharie court-house; was built in 1778, and at the time of the raid was commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Volkert Veeder of Caughnawaga.

‡ Near the present village of Sloansville.

He also sent word to Lieutenant-Colonel Veeder, directing him to send such troops as could be spared from the Schoharie forts, to hang upon the rear of the enemy, but to avoid an engagement until he could come up. This order was faithfully executed. His force at that time was about seven hundred men, but more were expected during the night. A few head of cattle, intended for Fort Schuyler, were slaughtered, and all the ovens in town were put in requisition to supply the troops with bread.

During the evening General Van Rensselaer called a meeting of the principal citizens to consult upon means for hastening his march, and it was proposed to use wagons for transporting them a part of the way; but a sufficient number could not be collected during the night, and this plan was abandoned. The troops were bivouacked in the suburbs of the town, and as soon as they could receive their rations in the morning they began their march up the south side of the river. Governor Clinton, who was then at Albany, took measures for assembling at once such remaining troops and supplies as the country could afford, with the view of following the expedition and sustaining its movements.

About 8 o'clock on the morning of the 18th the enemy resumed their march down the Schoharie valley, and leaving Fort Hunter,* half a mile to their right, continued up on the south bank of the Mohawk, to a place now known as Willow Basin, a short distance below the Nose, where they encamped for the night. Their route was marked by a general pillage and burning, with the exception of a few houses owned by persons supposed to be of loyal sympathies. Most of the inhabitants were alarmed of the coming danger in time to escape into the fields and woods, where they witnessed the plunder and destruction of their property. A detachment under Captain Duncan crossed to the north bank and destroyed what had escaped the invasion of Sir John, in May previous, excepting a stone church at Caughnawaga † that had been built under the patronage of Sir William Johnson a few years before the war.

On the morning of the 19th, having forded the Mohawk with his main body at Keator's Rift, near the present village of Sprakers, they continued their course up the north side of the valley, as the south, having already been ravaged in August by Brant, had but little left to invite destruction, for two miles, to Homestead creek (now known as Nellis Glen), and headed northward to destroy fruitful Stone Arabia district.

General Van Rensselaer continued his march during the day with as much expedition as the state of the roads would admit, and about six o'clock at night on the 18th had arrived opposite the former residence of Sir William Johnson, nearly twenty miles above Schenectady.

A council was called by the general as soon as the troops could be properly disposed, consisting of a number of field officers, and the General suggested to them the necessity of taking measures to procure intelligence of the enemy's route. It was agreed to send out a party to make discoveries, which was accordingly done. As the road was closely wooded, and it being very dark, the council agreed that it would be imprudent and dangerous to march over the hill until moonrise. They accordingly waited for the moon, which appeared at ten o'clock, when the march was resumed, but the road over the hill was very miry and deep, which impeded the march. They arrived at Fort Hunter about midnight and crossed the Schoharie instantly, in a scow and on wagons, and proceeded in their march, without delay, to Van Epps' * where they arrived about four o'clock, and halted not more than an hour. Here letters were written to Col. Dubois, at Fort Rensselaer, and Col. Brown, at Stone Arabia, advising them of his situation and his intentions to pursue the enemy closely and to attack them by break of day. Intelligence was here received that the enemy were encamped at Anthony's Nose, on both sides of the river.

About three miles north of the Mohawk at Palantine Bridge, was Fort Paris, which consisted of a farm house and outbuildings, a store, barracks for over one hundred soldiers, all enclosed by pickets, with a blockhouse on its western side. The commandant was Colonel John Brown, an officer of undoubted ability and tried courage, who had under him a force of about one hundred and thirty men of the Massachusetts levies.

About three-fourths of a mile south of Fort Paris was a one-story stone farm house, owned by Johannes Kayser. Its walls were pierced on both its gable ends; on its front and rear oak timbers topped its walls, which had openings for defense by riflemen. It also had a garrison of enlisted soldiers, and was known as Fort Kayser.

It is not certainly known whether Colonel Brown received the message of General Van Rensselaer, or whether his movements were occasioned by the rumors he received of the enemy's approach, and his own sense of duty under the circumstances. He, however, formed his command in line of battle, on the morning of the 19th, except a few left to guard the fort, and marched down the road leading southward towards the Mohawk. He met the enemy on the slopes of the valley, about a mile from the present village of Palantine Bridge, when a battle ensued that continued to be fought with bravery, until himself and thirty-nine of his men were killed, and two captured. The remainder of his troops broke and fled towards Fort Rensselaer, † about three miles distant, on the south bank of the river.

The loss of the enemy on this occasion is not known.

Forts Kayser and Paris, at Stone Arabia, were at this time crowded with families, and capable of but feeble resistance. The enemy had, however, no time to waste in attacking them, and after the defeat of Colonel Brown, they dispersed over a wide extent of country, setting fire to everything combustible in the settlement.

When General Van Rensselaer arrived at the Nose, on the 19th, where the enemy had camped, they had left hours before and had crossed the Mohawk a short distance west of the Nose. He did not wish to cross there, fearing an ambushade, and did not know what route Sir John was going to take, nor did he deem it prudent to get in front of the enemy's line of march. His advance informed him that they heard the conflict with Colonel Brown, and had learned of the latter's defeat and death, through fugitives who came to the river.

The next rift is Frey's, opposite Canajoharie. (The present village did not then exist.) General Van Rensselaer tried to cross the river there, but found it impracticable, so he marched to a fording place about one and a half miles below Fort Rensselaer.

Orders were given for the troops to cross to the north bank as soon as possible. They were exhausted with fatigue, the river was too deep to ford, and the means of crossing were limited to a rude bridge made by placing wagons in the stream, along which the men could climb with difficulty, from one to another. Several hours elapsed before they were all over and had joined the levies and Indians under Colonel Dubois, who had crossed at Walrath's ferry about a mile above.

Several miles above Garoga creek is the stone farm house of Adam Klock, built in 1750. Its walls were loop-holed, as can yet be seen. The public road whereon both armies advanced was along the river, on the south front of the dwelling, where now the New York Central railroad is located. On the east side was a good-sized apple orchard, on the west a stone wall running north, and a kitchen garden; on the east a stone wall running up to a field; in fact, the divisions of fields, orchard, and even the pig and cattle yards were fenced with stone, three feet high.

Sir John, unable to avoid his enemy, decided to meet him at a place south of the public road. From the flat a peninsula (now an island), jutting out into the river, and on it were placed Regulars; his right could not be turned, as the water was deep and the current rapid. On the lowland also were Regulars. Sir John's line extended up the hill, whether on the west or east of the house, or on both, is not known. The destroyers, the Mohawk Indians, were in ambush on the hill to the left. His army faced east.

General Van Rensselaer placed Colonel Cuyler with the militia at the left on the lowland, next the Mohawk; in the center Colonel Whiting; on the extreme right was Colonel Dubois with his fresh troops from Fort Plain, or Rensselaer. Firing began by the pursuers when five or six hundred yards from the enemy, who were protected by stone walls. The left wing was in disorder all the time. Colonel Dubois marched on till he gained the flank of the enemy's main body, pursuant to the general's order. It began to grow dusk, and he perceived that his front had got into the enemy's rear; he faced his men about, marched, undiscovered, down to the enemy, firing platoons from right to left, when the enemy broke and ran, and the whole line would have been doubled up, and a complete and decisive victory won, had daylight lasted a little while longer. But it was then so dark that persons ten feet distant could not be recognized. Colonel Dubois and his men, being mistaken for the enemy, owing to the darkness, were fired on by friends in front, and lest the men should kill each other, the firing was ordered to cease. Sir John fled from the field with the Indians and Yagers, doubtless supposing all was lost. General Van Rensselaer, being unacquainted, consulted Colonel Dubois where a suitable place to camp could be found. Colonel Dubois selected a place one mile from the battle-field, where they could not be surprised during the night, and where the wagons with provisions could reach the troops.

There the night of the 19th was spent. The general ordered his officers to be ready to continue the pursuit by daybreak next morning.

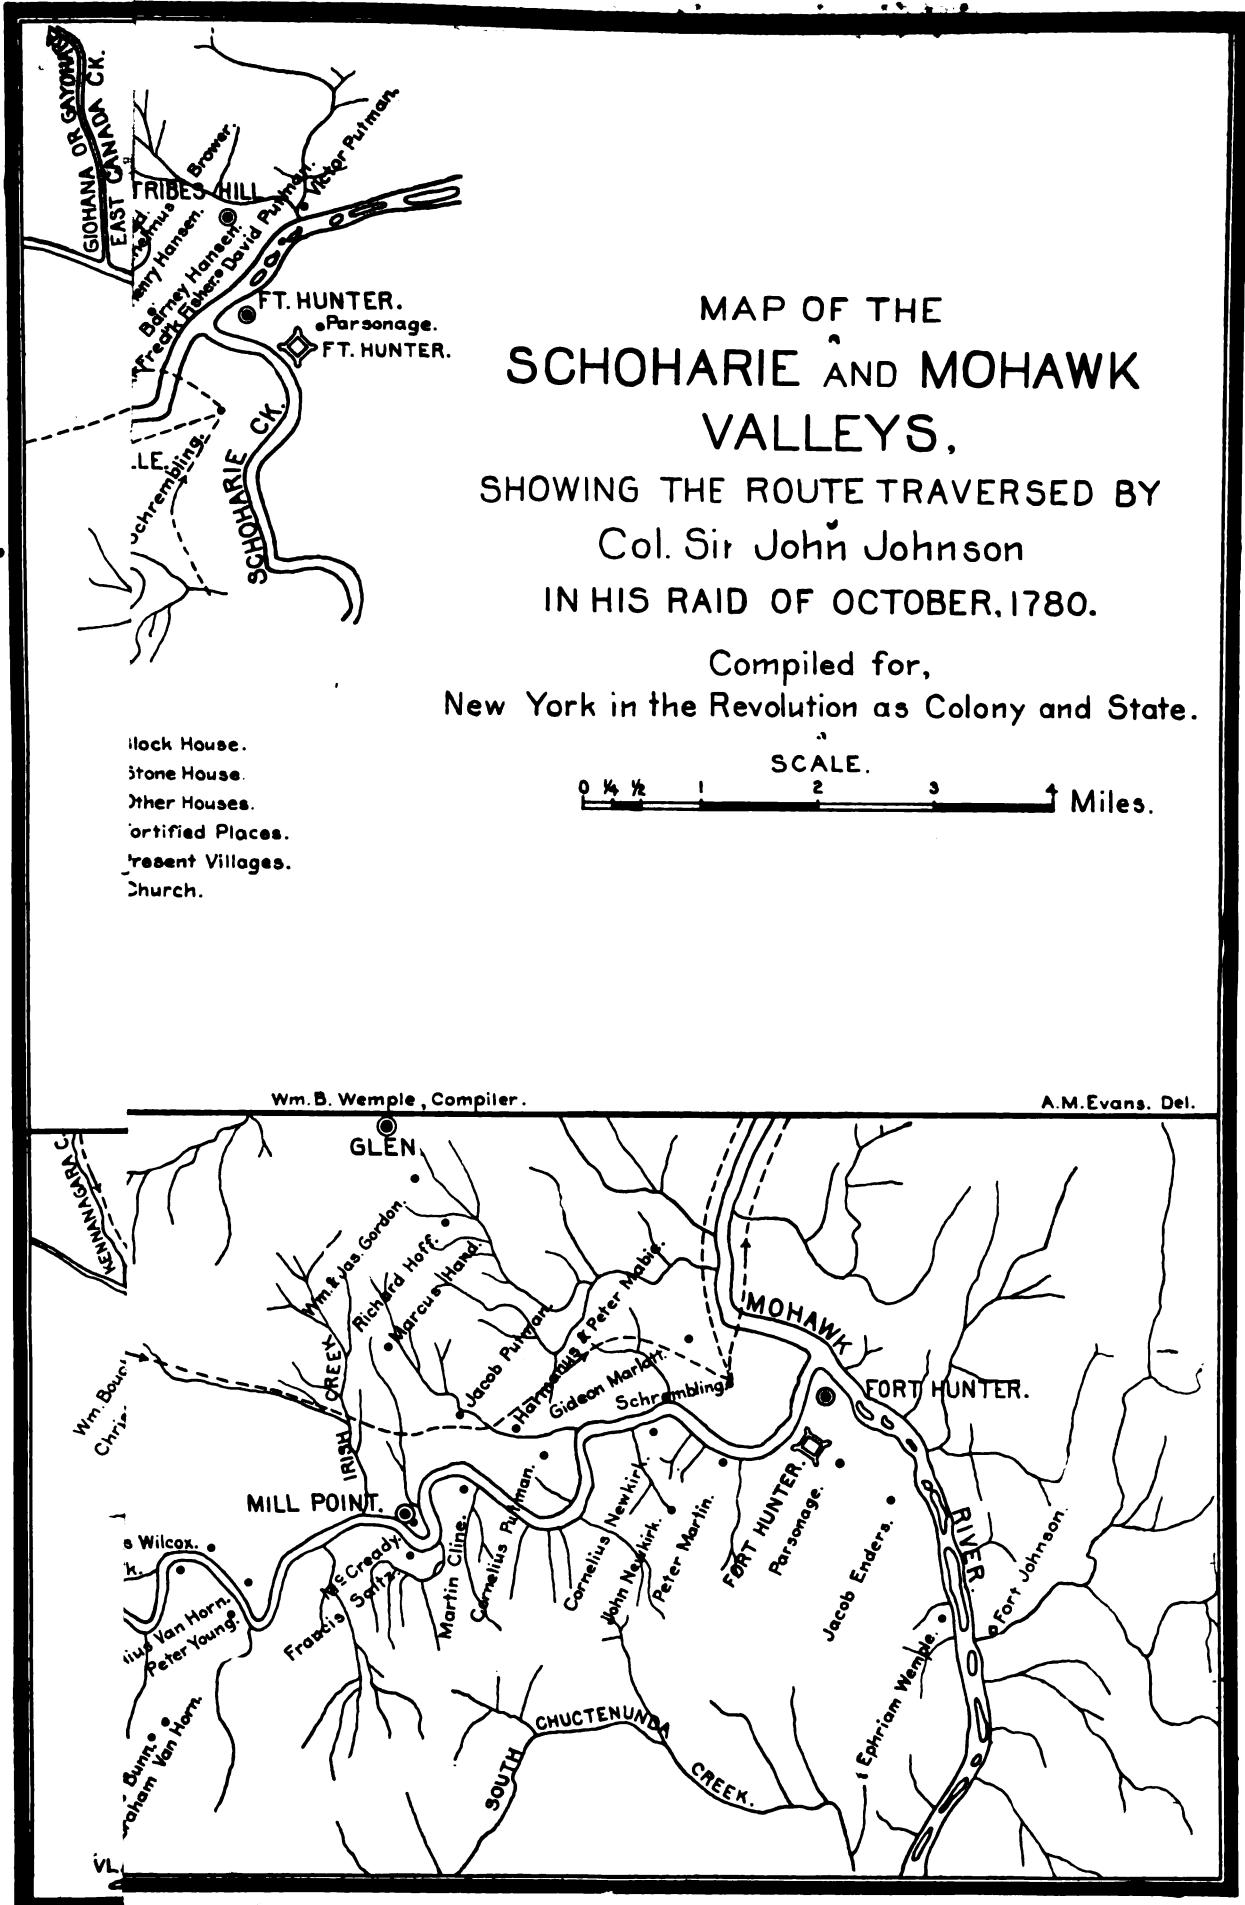

Colonels Clyde and Benschoten, with the forces, by order of the General, occupied the battle-field during the night, and protected the booty which the enemy abandoned, consisting of baggage, two field pieces, wagons, hundreds of cattle, and about fifty horses, many of which were afterward claimed and returned to Schoharie. During the night Johnson's army crossed to the south side of the Mohawk at various places above, the greater number at Christie's Rift, now Upper St. Johnsville. The pursuit was resumed at sunrise on the morning of the 20th. At one o'clock the troops had reached Fork Herkimer, having marched eighteen miles. There Governor Clinton overtook the army and pursued to within fifteen miles of Oneida. They could go no further, the provisions, which had to be carried on pack-horses, being exhausted, the country uninhabited, and the soldiers worn out. They found the remains of their last night's encampment, but the enemy were beyond reach of pursuit, and they returned to Fort Herkimer.

Was General Van Rensselaer to blame because he failed in demolishing Johnson's army? The evidence of those who participated in the pursuit, and the verdict of the Court of Inquiry, unanimously acquitted him, saying: "The whole of General Van Rensselaer's conduct, both before and after, as well as in the action of the 19th of October last, was not only unexceptionable, but such as became a good, active, faithful, prudent and spirited officer, and that the public clamors raised to his prejudice on that account, are without the least foundation.

President."

EXPLANATIONS.

No rank below ensign is given in this volume.

Detailed information will be found on the manuscripts themselves. The index indicates only the volume, folio and page where a name may be found.

It is a matter for regret that these records do not present a complete roster of all the men from New York engaged in the Revolutionary War. Many rolls are missing, and many are defective, but such names as could be found are given. In some cases no enlisted men appear; only the officers of the organization.

The spelling of names is erratic and unreliable. Many of the soldiers could not write, and the spelling of a name depended upon the whim of the scribe.

"Deserter" written after a name must not be taken too seriously. Frequently the men absented themselves to gather crops, to attend a sick wife, or to bury a child, but it is found that the soldier generally returned, and was again taken up on the rolls.

Hon.^d Sir

From a just sense of that conduct, which has hitherto so conspicuously been shown, to advance the Third New York Regiment, to Honor, and Public notice,

We congratulate you that those Characteristics which so eminently point out the Gentleman and Soldier, have by your Personal having been deservedly noticed by our Bleeding Country.

Altho we rejoice at your Promotion yet we cannot but regret, the loss of so worthy a Patron.

That the prosperity which has crown'd your Conduct with Victory, may still be continued is the sincere Wish and Prayer of

Hon.^d Sir

Your Honor's Most Obedient and Very Able Servant

Human Falls 22 Aug 1777
Dear Colonel

I write you the 19th Instant that I should be with you in a few days, since which your Express is arrived, and informs you are in high Spirits and under no Apprehension at present, I have been retarded by the badness of the Road, waiting for some Baggage and Ammunition Waggon & for the Militia who did not at first turn out with that Spirit I expected, they are now joining me in great Numbers, a few days will receive you, be under no kind of Apprehensions I know the Strength of the Enemy & how to deal with them.

Inclosed are several Letters and Papers which will announce to you a signal Victory gained by General Stark over the

A LETTER FROM GENERAL BENEDICT ARNOLD.

Pray, you will accept my respects to your Excellency on the occasion, & with his Highness's consent the Army are on board Ship, the last that was the 1st. Capt. he was in the Gulf Stream between Buzoyne, I hear this Minute is retreating to Ty - I make no doubt our Army which is near Fifteen thousand will cut off his retreat

Adieu & Believe me to be D^r Colored,

Yours sincerely

Colonel Ganjevoth

Green Mountain Boys.

These muster rolls are spoken of as "Major Brown's Detachment," and that detachment is spoken of as in "General Arnold's Regiment." (The only mention of General Arnold found in our records).

The fact that, as a matter of history, the "Green Mountain Boys" were at Quebec in 1776; the fact that this detachment was also at Quebec in 1776; the fact that two of the officers on these rolls—Captain and Commissary Elijah Babcock and Captain Robert Cochran—are identical in name and rank with those on a list handed to the Provincial Congress of New York by Ethan Allen and Seth Warner, on July 4, 1775, as officers for the Green Mountain Boys, and the further fact that none of the men are recorded in any other place, or with any other organization, justifies the belief that the soldiers on its rolls herewith were a part of that historic band.

Captain, Major, Lieutenant Colonel, Colonel and Acting Brigadier General Marinus Willett was a gallant officer. He held many commands and his promotions were rapid. In 1775-6 he was a Captain in Colonel Alexander McDougal's Regiment, 1st N. Y. Line. On April 27th, 1776, the Provincial Congress recommended him to the Continental Congress for Major of the same Regiment. In November of the same year he was recommended for Lieutenant Colonel of the 3rd Line, and in July, 1780, he was made Lieutenant Colonel Commandant of the 5th Regiment of the Line.

In 1781, as Lieutenant Colonel, he commanded a Regiment of Levies, and in 1782 was made full Colonel of still another Regiment of Levies. After the death of General Nicholas Herkimer, Colonel Willett commanded the Tryon Co. Militia as Acting Brigadier General, and in the battles of Johnstown and Caughnawaga defeated the enemy most signally.

Amstercam 5th July 1771

Dear Sir

Yesterday a Party of at least forty supposed to be Bufflers Ensigns attacked Ensign Moor with Privates who were upon the top of a Mill from the Fort. One Soldier was brought in Dead and inhumanly mangled two were brought in wounded one of them Slightly and the other a Martyr. Six Privates and Ensign Moor are Missing. Two Parties were immediately sent pursue the Enemy, but returned not being able to come up with them

You will deliver the enclosed and you will oblige Me your very Honourable

Peter Gansevoort

State of New York.

In Senate March 2^d 1770.

The Senate being informed that the Hides which the Convention of this State some time ago put into the hands of Mess^{rs} Matthew Cantine and John Anthony at Marlbtown to be tanned and dressed by them for the use of this State, or some considerable part of them are prepared for working up into Shoes. —

Resolved, if the honorable House of Assembly concurs herein, That Colonel Peter Custerius the Commissary appointed to procure Cloathing for the Troops raised under the Direction of this State, take the said Quantity of Leather into his Care and cause the same to be made up into Shoes with all possible Dispatch, to be delivered by him or his Order into the Cloathing Store of this State; And that Mr. Custerius be & he hereby is authorized to give Exemptions from Militia Duty to such Shoemakers, their Journeymen and Apprentices as he shall employ in making the said Shoes; to avail them respectively no longer than during the time they shall severally be in the said Employ Ordered that Mr. Roswell carry a Copy of the foregoing Resolution to the

Sir

As the Time of my Militia now stationed under your Command at Fort Schuyler, will be expired this Week, I beg of you, not to detain them longer. The County Committee promised them not to stay longer but sixteen ^{days}, but I prolonged the Time to three Weeks from Home to Home, which I assured them under my hand. They will long for the Time in regard to their Hay and Wheat Harvest, as their presence at home is most necessary at this Season. I hope therefore, that you'll grant them their Discharge next Tuesday, so that they may reach Home at the Three Weeks End especially as one hundred and sixty Men Continental Troops are sent off to day for Fort Schuyler to reinforce your Garrison. In case of detaining them longer as promised, I really fear, that it will cause a Disturbance and an unwillingness for their future Service, when wanted, and besides they perhaps would desert from their Nation, to the dishonor of our Country. I have procured twenty fat Cattle for your Garrison agreeable to your Request, they are ready and waiting for to be drove along under a sufficient Guard - I am always with Resp.

Sir!
Col. Waston, as I understood of them is ready and willing to march up with his Men to Fort Schuyler, as soon as you will require the same, otherwise he is to stay at Fort Dayton -

Sir
Your obedt. humble servt.
Nicolas Herckheimer

Col. Peter Jansewoort
Commandt.

Ulster County Militia — (Continued).HARDENBURGH'S REGIMENT.

This Regiment seems to have had a somewhat torturous career.

On March 13, 1776, the Provincial Congress received a letter from Colonel Abraham Hasbrouck, Major Johannes Snyder and the other officers of the Field and Staff, returning their commissions for "childish reasons," as the proceedings of the Provincial Congress characterized them. On August 3, 1776, Captain Salisbury complained to the same body that Colonel Snyder had ordered that his Troop of Horse be drafted as Foot soldiers. Congress countermanded the order. Soon afterward, charges were preferred against Colonel Snyder, but whether on account of the above action does not appear, nor is the result given.

As he was still in command in 1782, the charges could have had no serious result. As far as can be gathered, the Regiment served at different periods from October 25, 1775, until 1782.

Many changes were made in the officers at a reorganization in February, 1778.

On November 2, 1781, Lieutenant Colonel Elmendorf resigned, but no record is found of who succeeded him.
